

Our proven system of building could prove to be a huge asset for your business.

We could be the most efficient sub contractor that you have ever hired.

Over the last 50 years, Superior Homes has been perfecting the art of building homes and other structures indoors, under controlled climate and working conditions.

Today our process has become the ultimate in modular building technology. We have learned how to consistently produce better buildings at a lower cost than possible with conventional methods. We completely eliminate problems with delivery, labor, scheduling and weather.

Many conventional builders have caught on to the fact that we are essentially putting most of their sub contractor needs under one roof, where they work very efficiently and deliver outstanding results.

We would like to talk to you about some of your projects. If you're interested, you should know that you don't have to become any kind of dealer to work with Superior. We're like using a conventional group of sub contractors, except that we can be much more efficient and cost effective.

Here's what we can do for you and your customers.

Help with design and planning

We can help you on almost any type of project. Our Cad/Cam Design & Build program is at your service to maximize quality and avoid structural problems. The result is an efficiently built, energy smart, great looking building.

A faster, smoother construction process

Everyone wins when things go smoothly. You won't have to waste time riding herd on subs, and your customers won't suffer frustrating delays. With one call or visit you can check on all the aspects of your project, because we're already supervising it for you. Our guys show up every day, and the projects keep moving. Plus, it never rains or snows in our plant.

A guaranteed price

When we give you a price, that will be the price. Our buying power will already give you the best deal possible on materials. Our integrity will enable you to hold your price and profit margin.

Comprehensive project coordination

Our customer service people will work with you to coordinate site preparation, foundation work and ultimately the delivery of completed sections. Our people will work side-by-side with you to assure exceptional results and save you time in the process.

In an era where saving money and time have never been more important, Superior Homes can help you win more bids and handle more projects without hiring more people.

Give us a chance to take a look at your next project and see for yourself the impact we can have on your business.

Superior can help you with a vast array of projects

- Homes-large and small
- Cabins & cottages
- Multi Unit townhomes & condos
- Light commercial construction
